

Tom Fourcade, Chief Executive Officer, EnviroBusiness

Tom is Chief Executive Officer of EnviroBusiness, a membership organisation set up in 2005 with the support of the South East England Development Agency to drive the growth of the environmental technology and services sector.

Tom is a member of the Regional Organising Committee for the 2012 Olympic Games, is Chair of the South East Sustainable Business Group and Chair Designate of the UK Forum for Environmental Industries. From 2001 to 2005, Tom led a successful national market development programme for the recycling industry at the Waste & Resources Action Programme including the development of biomass fuel production and supply chains.

From 1997 to 2001, Tom was part of the team that set up Valpak, the leading UK compliance scheme for businesses affected by Producer Responsibility legislation. Prior to that he set up local authority recycling systems across the UK and started his career in 1992 by running a small recycling business in Barbados. Tom graduated from Kingston University in 1991 with a BSc Hons in physical environmental sciences and is a member of the Chartered Institute of Wastes Management.