

Matteo Bartolomeo

Matteo Bartolomeo holds a degree in Economics and is European Master in Environmental Management (EAEME). He is lecturer in Environmental Economics and Public Economics at Politecnico di Milano (Faculty of Urban and Environmental Planning) and at Università di Sassari, Faculty of Planning.

He is founder and President of Avanzi a leading think tank and incubator of sustainable businesses located in Milan, Italy. His main fields of specialisation are sustainable innovation and entrepreneurship, sustainable development policies, accounting for sustainable development, stakeholder involvement and land use conflict resolution.

He is involved (and has been involved/coordinated) in various projects for the European Commission (DG Research, DG Environment, DG Industry, DG INFSO), for regional governments, for industry associations and for large firms