

Professor Dr Raimund Bleischwitz, Fellow, Transatlantic Academy, USA

Raimund Bleischwitz is currently senior fellow at the Transatlantic Academy in Washington DC on “The competition for natural resources: the new geopolitical great game?” (www.transatlanticacademy.org). He is economist with PhD and ‘Habilitation’ and works as Co-Director of the Research Group ‘Material Flows and Resource Management’ at the Wuppertal Institute (WI) in Germany, Visiting Professor at the College of Europe in Bruges, Belgium and lecturer at the University of Wuppertal. At WI, Raimund is currently involved in the following projects: eco-innovation observatory (www.eco-innovation.eu, European Commission DG ENV), macroeconomic modelling of sustainable development (European Commission DG ENV), international resource politics (Heinrich Böll Foundation). Raimund has fifteen years plus experience in research on sustainability, resource efficiency, incentive systems, environmental and resource economics, raw material conflicts. He has led a series of multi-country evaluation and study teams and has been involved in a number of projects at European and international level. Raimund’s leadership record comprises the setting up of teams and organisations, advisor for various governments, organisation of major conferences and events. He is regularly invited as a speaker to major conferences and seminars both in academic and professional circles. He has extensive teaching experience at the College of Europe, Bruges, Belgium; at the Global Leadership Seminar on Climate Change Policy, Talloires/F, and at the University of Wuppertal, Germany.